"It is very rewarding to help commemorate special moments in a family's life," she says. "My short and sweet micro-shoots are a great way to try out studio or lifestyle photography for the first time, and after all it's impossible to keep toddlers still for much longer than 10 minutes!. You get a professional picture without breaking the bank and you get a gift that the mum in your life can treasure forever."

As a mother of two toddlers herself and with years of experience photographing children and babies Tamara is an expert at helping families feel comfortable and relaxed – including the more wayward little members - and has the patience to make sure she gets the best possible shot.

With either her pop-up studio inside the café, or the neighbouring playground as the backdrop, Tamara will help you find a style and setting that suits your family. Digital images start at £5, although there's no obligation to buy, and you'll be able to choose your favourites on the spot.

"I am delighted to have found Tamara," says Benedicte, who chose Tamara to take pictures of her family. "She is very professional, friendly and amazing with babies and toddlers. I would highly recommend her to anyone who wants a photoshoot with their loved ones."
